

YOU ARE INVITED TO A CONFLICT RESOLUTION DAY EXPO
October 19, 2006

- Is your homeowners' association on your case ever since you painted your house pink?
- Are you having a fight with your neighbor over her dog doing his business in your yard?
- Did all those trees and bushes that the landscaper guaranteed for a year die after 3 months and now he won't replace them?
- Does your teenage daughter refuse to obey the house rules?

Then mediation and other alternative forms of conflict resolution might be right for you.

In observance of National Conflict Resolution Day, the Conflict Resolution Center of Montgomery (CRCMC), in conjunction with the Commission on Common Ownership Communities, the District Court of Maryland, the Rockville Community Mediation Program, Montgomery County Public Schools, and the Bar Association of Montgomery County will hold a Conflict Resolution Day Expo on:

Thursday, October 19, 2006
from 4:30 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.
at the Council Office Building Cafeteria
100 Maryland Avenue, Rockville, Maryland.

Highlights of the event include: information on mediation and other forms of conflict resolution, live mock mediations, videos on mediation in Maryland, and a ceremony honoring participating organizations and their volunteers. There will be door prizes, and snacks and beverages will be served.

Come and learn more about ways of becoming involved to help make Montgomery County a more peaceful community. We look forward to welcoming you along with your friends, co-workers, civic and community leaders, and our talented pool of dedicated volunteers.
